WEST PARIS NOSES

BETHEL 7 to 6

9th Inning Surge Too Much for Locals

(By R. E. D.)

The Bethel aggregation lost a heart-breaker at West Paris, Wednesday afternoon. With the score 6 to 3 going into the ninth things looked bright for another victory. The umpire started things by calling a ball fair that was clearly outside of the line. West Paris took advantage of this and added two more real hits. These bingles, coupled with a hit batsman, along with two-base errors by the catcher, spell defeat for the Batalliers.

Bethel started off with a bang in the first with three big tallies. Weber, Watson, White, and Eldredge all connected safely. Watson and White for doubles.

West Paris came back with one in the first when Jack passed two men and then White lost the ball in the sun to let the score tally. Once more in the second on two hits made the game take on a close aspect.

We got our fourth run in the fourth on hits by Gill and Tise and a sacrifice by Smiley.

Two runs for Bethel, and one for West Paris were added to make the score 6 to 3. White and Tise each got their second hit in this frame to help in the scoring. The opponents' run came on three singles.

The stage was all set—but West Paris was not to be denied.

Jack was in difficulty several times during the game and seemed to be having trouble in locating the plate. The outfield was bothered by a wicked sun. White lost two balls, and Smiley, one—that is something that hasn't happened before, and probably won't again for some time.

Weber, White, Eldredge, Gill, and Tise led in the hitting with two apiece. White got two doubles to lead the parade. Old Les Doughty was the big noise for West Paris with three bingles. It is worthy of mention that three Pine Tree Leaguers played against Bethel, as well as another member of the league who pinch hit in the ninth.

For the second time within a week the umpiring was not all that it should have been. It is tough breaks like foul balls being called fair that takes the heart out of any team. A fighting team can do its best and deserve to win and one man—the umpire—can upset the applecart. This fact has been demonstrated before and it was again Wednesday.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION FROM ONE OF OUR VISITORS

The following letter received by the Citizen, Monday, shows the impression made by our town on the traveler. It should make us more appreciative of the attractiveness of our community and prove an added incentive to those trying to put Bethel forward as an ideal vacation center for the western Maine and White Mountain regions.

Auburn, N. Y.

Dear Editor:

A letter of this kind may be a little unusual but I feel as if the people of Bethel should know what a splendid impression it makes on the casual motorist.

We spent quite a while driving through the "New England States" this summer. An adventurous sort of a trip, for we went where the mood prompted us and stopped at night when we felt tired.

We arrived one evening in Bethel and in making inquiries were referred to Gunther's. I wonder if enough can be said of the excellent sleeping arrangements and courtesy one is afforded at Gunther's.

Mrs. Packard who has a restaurant in the town, in no small way contributed to our comfort. For a delicious dinner waited us after our drive and she started us off in the morning with a breakfast on roads about but seldom gets.

It is with pleasure that I am able to write you this letter and express our appreciation for your hospitality and courtesy and the town of Bethel will long remain for us, one of the pleasant memories of our trip.

Sincerely,
Ruth Mason Bartlett.

MOTHERS' CLUB PICNIC

One of the most enjoyable events in the history of the Mothers' Club was the annual picnic and business session held at the home of Mrs. Fannie Carter, Wednesday, June 19th. Early in the day this happy company of sixty women and children arrived at the pleasant farm home of Mrs. Carter where games of various kinds were enjoyed during the forenoon, one of the most exciting being a baseball game by the older children and some of the women who with a daring and adventurous spirit entered the game causing no little excitement among the younger generation yet proving to their skeptical minds that they knew the game after all and when a home run was scored by Mrs. O'Brien why they became somewhat alarmed as to the outcome of the game.

After the fun and merriment caused by the games was over, a picnic lunch was enjoyed on the lawn with hot coffee served by the hostess. Every thing passed off pleasantly except for a slight accident when several ladies fell to the ground when a settler filled with heavy weights collapsed. Mrs. Anderson being "the last straw to break the camel's back." After lunch and everything was cleared away the annual business session was held with the president, Mrs. Millie Wentzell, presiding. Meeting opened with a patriotic song followed by scripture reading and prayer. After the regular routine of business the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President: Mrs. Mabel O'Brien
Vice President: Mrs. Fannie Carter
Secretary and Treasurer: Mrs. Lottie Whitaker
Flower Committee: Mrs. Mabel Gibson and Mrs. Fannie Carter

The program committee then read several very interesting articles on "Office to Mothers." Following the business session a very pleasing program was presented.

THAT CELEBRATED CASE

Mr. Henry Boyker is restless and uneasy as the date for his trial for trifling with the affections of Mrs. Will Cary approaches. He scans the papers eagerly for news connected with the case, and then dashes them to the ground. He paces the floor of his room feverishly and gives every indication of a man undergoing a severe mental strain. He passes his friends on the street without a sign of recognition, and is frequently heard talking to himself in an incoherent manner. He is a desperate man.

Not so with the fair Plaintiff. She is comparatively happy in the belief that she will be awarded substantial damages for her fractured affections. She knows that the stern judge and the twelve jurors, tried and true, will be unable to withstand her pitiful appeal, and her bitter, briny tears.

The Plaintiff by her Attorney in her declaration states that on divers and amorous occasions the defendant did call upon her and pay court to her; that she was given to understand that his affections were hers; and that furthermore, he, Henry Boyker, the defendant aforesaid, did ask her to marry him, the same constituting a legal contract.

Much more of an interesting nature is contained in the declaration, all of which will be made known at the trial. Section one of the defendant's answer is a general denial. Section two states that the Plaintiff was in no way given to understand that the defendant had been willfully and maliciously and wantonly misinstructed and perverted. Furthermore he asks the Court to award him damages for defamation of character.

Public interest in the affair is approaching fever heat, and the trial, which is to be held in Odeon Hall, Tuesday evening July 22, under the auspices of the Men's Club of the Congregational Church, is sure to be attended by a tremendous gathering. Interesting, ludicrous and unexpected events are sure to follow.

THE GYPSYS ARE COMING

Those quaint, caravan tribes that wander over the face of the earth in gypsy painted wagons, around campfires and awe in the hearts of the many, have furnished the theme for many immortal songs and stories. Gypsy songs, Gypsy dances, Gypsy customs, tales of love and revenge over flickering camp fires afford a wealth of material to the dramatic producer searching for the picturesque and unusual—the colorful and passionate.

Just such a production, unique among present day stage presentations, is the entertainment that will inaugurate the 1930 Radcliffe Chautauque Engagement. Lovers of music, melody and drama will find rhythmic excitement in this performance that is vividly alive with gypsy character and romance. These curious nomads—sometimes sad, sometimes glad—are entirely different from more stage and society to an entire world. They present a performance alive with real emotional interest—a stirring, quick action performance that grips the very soul of the audience and transforms the scene from more stage and society to an entire world.

The beautiful melody of these free songs, the past performance of these strange, nomadic, wandering tribes, the free gypsy songs heard in the streets, the gypsy songs heard in the streets, the gypsy songs heard in the streets.

The Gypsy Serenade is a beautiful composition of trained singers and actors who understand the gypsy language and life and express it in their performance. The entertainment offered by these strange folk, is said to embody some of the most recent life presentations ever offered a Chautauque audience. It is a fortunate indeed that Bethel people will have the opportunity of seeing and hearing this unusual exhibition. The Radcliffe has secured for the first day of the present Chautauque engagement.

Health and Happiness Too Lightly Regarded?

Despite the great mergers and international financing so common to day, the gentle art of proper, healthy, lengthy and joyful living remains the biggest business on earth, John Clarence Pung declares in Hygeia Magazine, in an article directed to business men.

Many men of affairs display intelligent interest in their health, but there are hundreds who imagine that they enjoy a privileged immunity against the infatuations of fundamental living habits. One finds bed manufacturers who use beds as little as anybody; producers of health foods who regularly eat anything and everything until their capacity fails; jobbers of gymnasium equipment whose personal experience is limited to an infrequent stroll over a golf course; and resort hotel men whose fresh air is obtained only when they retire at night, this health work or changes.

Too much food, too little exercise and too little sleep are constantly taking their toll from prosperous business men. Heart disease, cancer and diabetes attack a staggering number. This situation could be changed overnight, Doctor Pung insists. If business men would use the simple expedient of having annual physical examinations, early diagnosis is the secret in combating many conditions that insidiously gain headway.

Hosiery of Mixed Color Fad of Centuries Ago

The bright-colored hose worn in the fourteenth century roused the ire of even Chaucer, who declares that "the wrapping of their hose which are decorated of two colors, white and red, white and black, or black and red and white and blue, make the wearers seem as though such mischance had rained and not consumed one half of their bodies."

The fashion of wearing two colors, "which rendered uncertain the fellowship of its legs," continued in spite of the ridicule and satire of the poets and chroniclers, until the middle of the sixteenth century.

The long hose or heriot worn by persons of quality at the time were made of the finest cloth or velvet, and these in record of Henry III ordering three pairs for his sister Isabella, which were to be of velvet embroidered with gold. Knitted stockings, or as they were originally called, standing hose, were introduced into Britain in the sixteenth century, and those of silk were considered such a luxury that they were thought a present fit for a king, so we find Sir Thomas Gresham presenting a pair of long Spanish silk hose to Edward VI.

Bridal Bouquets

It is impossible to state when flowers were first used at a wedding, since this is a very ancient custom. Orange blossoms were worn and carried by brides from the earliest times, as they portend luck and happiness. Spenser and Milton were of the opinion that the orange was the golden apple presented to Jupiter by Juno on her wedding day. It was customary for the Anglo-Saxon bride to give her friends small knots and ribbons to wear or carry on the wedding day. This custom still survives in the bouquet of the bridesmaids.

One's Best Demanded

No job is too small to take pains with; no task is too little to do well. If you can't drive a nail straight, you're going to make a fizzle of building a house. No man jumps into greatness; he works his way steadily upward.—Grit.

Weighing Sand

According to the federal and state laws a bushel of sand weighs 130 pounds in most of the states; in Pennsylvania the weight is 140 pounds to a bushel. And a cubic yard of sand contains 2,240 pounds.

Marks' Mechanical Engineers handbook gives the weight of dry, loose sand and gravel as 60 to 105 pounds per cubic foot; sand and gravel dry and packed, 100 to 120 pounds; sand and gravel wet, 115 to 120 pounds.

Early Magazines

The first magazine published in America was founded in Philadelphia January 12, 1741. It was the American Magazine, or a Monthly View of the Political State of the British Colonies, published by Andrew Bradford. Three days later Benjamin Franklin issued the General Magazine and Historical Chronicle for all the British Plantations in America.—Detroit News.

Music? Ask Dad

Honk on the saxophone!
Squawk on the clarinet!!
Poong—Poong Zowie!
It's the Razzdazz Band.
"Dad, hear 'em syncopate!
Say, but they're goin' great!
Don't be a dud, Dad,
Give the boys a hand!"

Says Dad, "Well (COWBELLS!)
I think maybe (SLEIGHBELLS!)
I'd like the music better
IF I (PUNGA-PUNGA-PUNGA!)
Was just weak minded
Or if (CRASH, BANG, CATERWAUL!)

A GREAT DRAMA AT LAKEWOOD

It is an old saying that other times have other manners, accepted as such things go, without much consideration for actualities. The performance of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" at Lakewood this week reveals that this motto only becomes true when a long period of time has elapsed. This moving drama was first produced some twenty years ago. Its motivation, characterization and action are all of today. Human nature changes slowly, and basic impulses in men and women are practically the same as those found many generations ago. That is the reason why good plays, human plays, entertaining plays, as with "A Butterfly on the Wheel", are always welcome in the theatre.

The story of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" is one of love between husband and wife, ambition and unscrupulous manners on the part of the wife's rival, the trifling of a social philanderer who leads himself to the rival's schemes, and the natural helpfulness of a friend in time of need for both husband and wife. In performance "A Butterfly on the Wheel" creates entertaining atmosphere. Its fast story grips the attention and holds attention throughout.

The playing is fully up to the quality of the play itself. Peg Entwistle runs the gamut from social butterfly to distraught womanhood, fighting for her honor, with a lightness of touch in the earlier scenes delightful to behold and a passionate intensity in the great climaxes which were tremendous in their effect. Miss Entwistle interpreted this famous role in the grand manner, delightful to behold. Arthur Byron as the President of the British Deaf and Dumb, played with that convincing authority which is ever the mark of the finished actor. It is always a delight to witness the working of such technique for it is all too rare in the theatre. Frances Goodrich as the conspiring friend put convincing snarls into the role when she was in the flush of her scheme to entrap her man and stark vindictiveness into her purring tones when she was caught. Miss Goodrich is a player whose work has sharp contrasts and her deft portraits carry the touch of inspiration. Hugh O'Connell as the somewhat sappy Ellerdine provided that contrast to the emotional drama so essential for relief of strained attention. A welcome addition to the company was Frank Wilcox who lent the necessary savoir faire to the part of the philandering Collingwood. The performance, in its entirety was one of those smooth and satisfactory works in which the players at Lakewood have become famous.

The next week, July 21, the Lakewood Players will offer a new kind of a play, "The Perfect Alibi". It was written by A. A. Milne long famous for his light and whimsical means for his thrill in "The Perfect Alibi". It is not in guessing who killed the victim but in trying to figure out just how the law found out who did it. This is indeed a new idea and it is said that it provides a most unusual evening of good theatre.

Graphic Outlines of History

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AS A YOUNG MAN

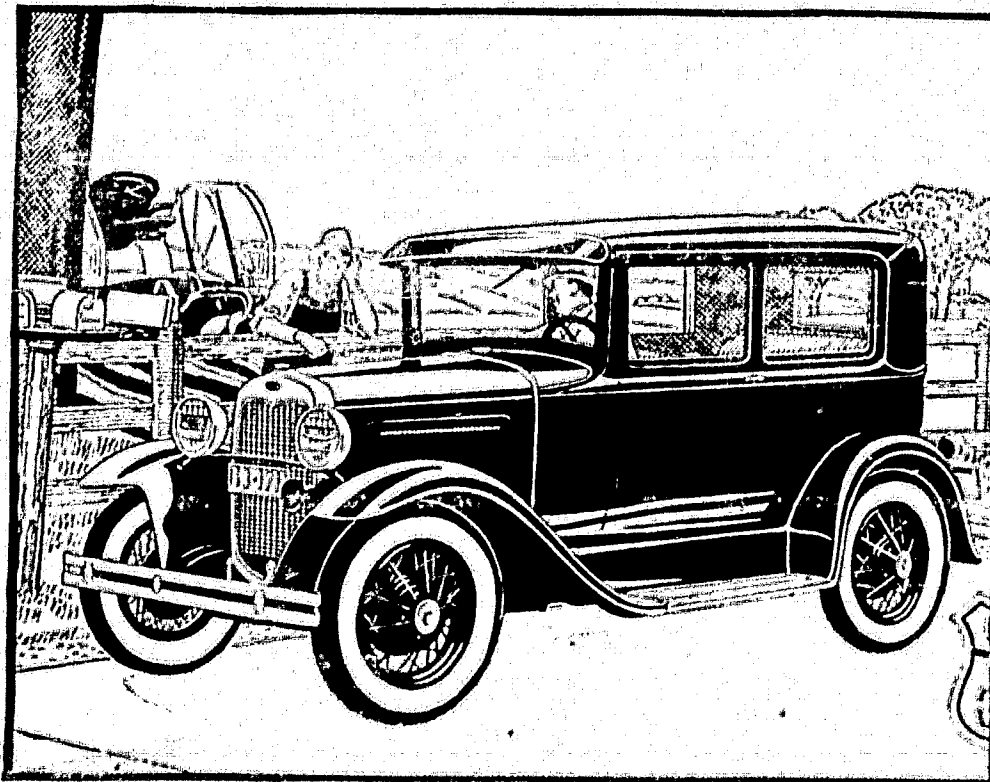

Franklin's early life was full of hardships and difficulties, as is commonly known. His first position was as a printer's helper, which was by no means lucrative, but it was the only business he was adapted to. Later he started a printing shop of his own and founded the Pennsylvania Gazette. The Saturday Evening Post of today was also founded by him. The courtesy and tact shown by our representatives is just another appreciated feature of our service.

ROXBURY LANDS ON

BETHEL 9 to 2
(by R. E. D.)

The locals struck a tartar in Roxbury last Saturday when they visited that place. What with the terrible field, the worse umpiring, and a general absence of the offense, the Bethelites were sadly outclassed.

Two hits were garnered off the combined efforts of Thomas and Pratt. Neither of these figured in the scoring. Our two runs were pure gifts. Bartlett scored one on a walk and two wild pitches while Davis scored the other on two errors and as many walks. Alger and Lurvey each got a safety to be the leading and only hitters on the Bethel team.

Gill was touched up for eleven hits and did not look like the same pitcher who turned back Lovell twice in extra-inning games. The fine (1) rulings of the umpire had a great deal to do with taking the heart out of the whole team. He may have been calling them as he saw them but to us he had decided Roxbury view of the ball game. On the whole the game was one that cannot be aptly described with mere words. A person would have to see it in order to believe that one team could get so many tough decisions and bad breaks in one nine-inning game.

United Parish
Comprising Albany, Stoneham, North Lovell and the Waterfords. Pastoral Staff: Revs. W. I. Bull; A. C. Townsend; Ralph A. Brandon. Miss Mary A. Beals, summer ass't.

The Daily Vacation Bible School is now in its second week at the Watkins House, Waterford. Nearly fifty children are enrolled. Transportation to this school is being entirely furnished by the Pastoral Staff, thus lessening the expense. The teaching staff consists of the Pastors, Miss Beals; Mrs. Brandon, Annie Gardiner and Virginia Tyler. After three weeks at Waterford, there will be a similar course at East Stoneham. This course will probably involve some expense for transportation, and contributions would be appreciated.

Last Sunday morning there was a large attendance at the Waterford Church, including about 100 girls from Camps Kokosing and Konewago. It was Mr. Brandon's first service in this pulpit.

Last Sunday was Children's Day at North Waterford, and an excellent program was carried through under the direction of Miss Beals. This school will not be closed during the summer months.

On Thursday evening there will be a Bible supper at Waterford, and one also at East Stoneham followed by a social in the Kewadin Club.

On Thursday at the vestry in East Stoneham, Mrs. Laura Best, County Nurse, will conduct a Child Health Conference with the assistance of a physician. This will take the place of the regular fall examination, and is put out early in order that any children found defective can be attended to before the opening of the school year. The Conference will begin at 9 A. M. and is for all school- and pre-school children. It is hoped that parents will see that their children are there to be examined. A similar Conference will be held in Albany on Friday of this week. Dates for Waterford and North Waterford will be announced later.

On next Sunday Rev. Mr. Bull will be absent, and Mrs. Beals will conduct the morning service at Waterford. Mr. Brandon will be at East Stoneham and Albany; Mr. Townsend at North Lovell and North Waterford.

An All-the-Parish Sunset Service at some lake-shore spot at South Waterford is being planned for next Sunday, if fair.

BEAR RIVER GRANGE

Friday Night will be observed at Bear River Grange, Saturday night, July 20. Everyone come and have a time.

Most to call the attention of all young men under 21 years of age, to the essay contest which the State Grange is preparing for the State Grange session this December which is held in Lewiston, would like to see the columns of this paper give details of contest.

An essay of not less than 1,200 or more than 1,500 words, upon this subject, "What will best promote rural life in Maine."

These essays are to be in hands of the State Grange not later than October 20, and will be submitted to a committee who will select the four best, to be delivered in person at the next session of the State Grange. Proper penmanship, spelling, capitalization and grammatical construction will be given into consideration by said committee.

A TREMENDOUS INDUSTRY

All of us take as a matter of course the telephone facilities that make it possible for us to talk to the person next door or someone in another country. But probably few realize the magnitude of the organization that has brought the world closer together through the medium of the spoken word.

There are over 20,000,000 telephones in this country and 3,000,000 more in foreign countries that can be interconnected. Every day in the year 7,000,000 telephone conversations take place in the United States. The work of hundreds of thousands of people is necessary to the maintenance of this service.

The record of the telephone industry is outstanding in our industrial history.

THREE-QUARTER CENTURY CLUB PLANS UNDER WAY

The Maine Public Health Association, sponsor of the famous Three-Quarter Century Club, announces that Hon. Burleigh Martin of Augusta, has once again kindly consented to serve in the capacity of state chairman for the revision of the roster, preliminary to the annual meeting of the club, which is to be held in the City of Waterville on Friday, August 15th, 1930. It further announces that Hon. Frank H. Holley of North Anson, who has served so efficiently for several years as state chairman of transportation, has again signified his willingness to cooperate and will have charge of that phase of the day's program. Both these gentlemen are handling their respective tasks at the unanimous request of the club officers and members, who appreciate greatly their interest and able assistance during the past years. A representative from each county of Maine has already been appointed by Mr. Martin to handle the revision of the roster and by Mr. Holley to serve as transportation chairman for the county. A list of these citizens will be published as soon as it is learned whether they will serve on these committees or not. Mr. Frank Ballantyne of the Maine Automobile Association, has recently conferred with Mr. Holley, and will do everything he can to assist in the transportation of these worthy and venerable citizens of Maine, who deserve all the attention that the younger generation can render.

It has been suggested that a new feature be added to the program for the annual meeting, therefore the feminine contingency is invited to bring with them to the meeting any piece of fancy work or hand work completed by them during the past year. An exhibition of these articles will be maintained; three Waterville ladies will act as judges, and a prize will be given to the club member who in the estimation of the judges is most deserving of winning the trophy.

Several splendid essays have already been received at the Central Office in Augusta, and this contest bids fair to be a close one. The two subjects for consideration this year are "How to Keep Well" and "The Essentials of Success". The only rules governing the contest are that the writers must be members of the Three-Quarter Century Club, which means that they must have celebrated their 75th birthday, and that the essays must be received at the Central Office of the Maine Public Health Association, on or before August 10th. The essays may be long or short, at the writer's desire, as there is no word limit.

So far, but little has been done toward preparing the speaking program for the day, but it is the unanimous desire of the club members to invite Gov. Wm. Tudor Gardner to be present, and give an address. Mr. A. M. Dunham, President of the Club, is preparing a brief history covering its organization, which will be incorporated in the day's program. The Three-Quarter Century Club of St. Petersburg, Florida, will again be asked to send a representative to attend the meeting on August 15th. Many members have expressed the hope that the representative may be Mrs. Evelyn Barton Rittenhouse, who has attended the last two sessions of the Maine Club, and who is a great favorite with the "boys and girls" of this state.

The darkest hour in man's life is when he sits down to plan how to get money without earning it. — Horace Greeley.

DESTROYING OUR FORESTS

The wanton destruction of timberland is one of the most tragic phases of our fire waste record.

In a period of ten years, between 1916 and 1925, an average of 51,021 forest fires occurred each year, entailing an annual destruction of property value of $20,994,916. It requires 40 to 100 years for a tree to reach maturity. Yet, by fire, whole forests can be totally destroyed in a few hours.

Great fires, wiping out all timber over broad areas cause the extinction of wild life, radical changes in climate and damage to agriculture. The state and national governments do everything in their power to prevent such catastrophes. But they cannot be successful without public cooperation.

Tourists, by carelessness with tobacco, matches and camp fires, are leading offenders. Some of the worst forest conflagrations in our history have occurred when camping parties moved on without completely extinguishing their fires.

It should be our patriotic duty to help protect and conserve our great forests.

FARM ROADS AND SMALL TOWNS

A nation-wide movement is under way to bring about the construction, on an extensive scale, of secondary or farm-to-market roads. So long as 75 percent of American farmers are cut off from their markets during several months of each year by impassable roads, we will have an "agricultural problem."

Good secondary roads would benefit many persons besides farmers. Such roads would bring business to storekeepers in many small towns. They would allow the farmer to go 20 or 50 miles for his necessities or amusements. They would offer tourists the attraction of new territory and freedom from traffic congestion found on main highways. They would bring greater prosperity to the farmer and give him more money to spend.

Brains, rock and a little asphalt can pull the farmer out of the mud for much less cost than the loss now suffered because of bad roads.

It may be true that you can fool all of the people some of the time, but the task of pleasing all of the people even a small part of the time is past human accomplishment.

Signifying something, possibly important, is the fact that 78 per cent of the retail spending in America is done by women and that 85 per cent of the income tax total is paid by men.

A safety razor concern has negotiated for a concession in Russia. We believe that in Russia the razor is thrown away, and the blade used to cut political articles out of newspapers.

Expressing a longing to become a symphony conductor, a young man asks the information editor what are the qualifications. The first, we assume, is a coat that fits properly in the back.

Of course, the way to stop war is to turn the minds of men into some other channel so interesting and absorbing that they will no longer think about fighting. But how low is that little thing going to be done?

QUICK ACTION NEEDED

Only 12 states require all automobile drivers to pass tests before they are licensed, and in 12 other states anyone, however incompetent, may operate a car, according to Dr. Julius Klein of the Department of Commerce.

"In the absence of a driver's license law," he states, "any or all of these potential killers and wreckers can be let loose with the utmost freedom and impunity upon the roads of the community."

Statistics show that the accident rate, in proportion to the number of automobiles registered, has increased much more rapidly in states where examinations of drivers are not required than in states where they are required.

Even if all the 48 states had strict examinations for drivers the accident problem would not be solved. But it is the consensus of much expert opinion that a national law which will force potential drivers to learn how to drive, and the best of single mind. The fact that last year 12,000 people were killed by automobiles should cause a demand for quick action in every state.

BETHEL AND VICINITY

Annie Hamlin was the guest of Jennie Rich of Bethel, Tuesday.

The little son of Sybil LeClair suffered quite severe cuts on the face in an automobile accident in Rumford Sunday.

The LeClair car collided with a car which stopped abruptly to view an accident which had taken place a short time before. In the LeClair car were Mr. and Mrs. LeClair and little son, also Mr. and Mrs. Guy Peterson of South Paris.

Mrs. Patterson and the little boy were taken to the Rumford Hospital but were taken home later in the day. Five stitches were necessary in the boy's face. Mr. Peterson suffered numerous bruises but X-rays showed no bones broken. She has returned to her work. Mr. LeClair's car was badly damaged.

MAINE POTATO ACREAGE INCREASED 5% OVER LAST YEAR

The 1930 crop of Maine potatoes is placed at 185,000 acres or 5% above the revised estimate of 176,000 acres harvested in 1929, according to the joint report released recently by the Maine and United States Departments of Agriculture. The acreage this year is 26% above the 1924-1928 average of 149,000 acres. Potato plantings were completed earlier than usual this spring and the crop has a very good start.

There was considerable rainfall during June in the form of heavy showers which caused considerable washing and small areas have been completely destroyed. Present prospects indicate a production of 47,000,000 bushels compared with the revised production of 50,120,000 bushels harvested in 1929 and 38,530,000 bushels the 1924-1928 average. In the other New England States there were very few small changes in the acreage planted this year.

The acreage for New England now totals 250,000 acres. The indications available at this time point to a New England production of 55,490,000 bushels as compared with 55,988,000 bushels harvested in 1929 and the five year average production of 47,400,000 bushels.

The Maine corn acreage shows no change from that harvested in recent years but the oat acreage was increased from 122,000 acres in 1929 to 132,000 acres this year. Present prospects are for a corn crop slightly in excess of last year and the acreage, while oat production forecasted at 5,290,000 bushels, is about 7% greater than that harvested last year. There has been a favorable season so far for oats and the other small grains.

A slight reduction in the acreage of tame hay is estimated for Maine this year but the favorable condition indicates a production very nearly as large as that of a year ago. It is forecasted at 1,574,000 tons this year as compared with 1,562,000 tons a year ago. Pasture conditions average 94% or 7 points above the ten year average for July 1.

The Maine commercial apple crop is forecasted at 536,000 barrels compared with 692,000 barrels harvested last year and 499,000 barrels the 1924-1928 average. There was a heavy bloom of all varieties but the set was light owing to the cold wet weather during the blossom season. Many growers report that the June drop was very heavy this year. The condition of all varieties indicates that all except Baldwins will be lighter than two years ago. The Baldwin crop is expected to be the largest in the past three years. Total apple production is placed at 2,664,000 bushels or about 23% below the production last year. Commercial apples for New England are likely to total 2,641,000 barrels compared with 1,868,000 barrels harvested last year. All of the states except Maine and Vermont show lower crops than 1929. The production of pears and grapes in Maine is also expected to be lighter than usual this year.

MILK PRODUCTION IN NEW ENGLAND 4% BELOW AVERAGE

Average daily milk production per cow for all cows as reported by New England dairymen on July 1 was 4.7% below what it was on June 1, 4.4% below that of last year and 4.1% below the average for the five year period 1924-1928. During the first six months of the year milk production held close to the five year average. The curve shows a decided drop this month which has its counterpart in production during June 1924. The average decline during June is only 1.7%.

As compared with the June average milk production there were decreases in all the New England States except Maine which showed a slight increase. The average production per cow for New England as a whole on July 1 was 17.76 pounds compared with 18.04 pounds on June 1, 1930, 18.57 pounds on July 1, 1929 and 18.52 pounds on July 1, 1928. There was a decrease from the average of a year ago in Maine of 7.8%; in Vermont 7.3%; in Massachusetts 1.7%; in Rhode Island 0.2% and in Connecticut 3.8%.

These decreases were partly offset by an increase of 6.9% in New Hampshire. The proportion of dry cows to all cows in New England decreased from 16.2% to 15.2% during June. A year ago the average was 16.2% while the 1924-1928 average is 14.7%. In Maine dry cows were 14.0% of all cows; in New Hampshire 17.0%; in Vermont 13.1%; in Massachusetts 16.5%; in Rhode Island 14.0% and in Connecticut 17.7%. As compared with a year ago there were decreases in all states except Connecticut which shows a slight increase. New Hampshire this month shows approximately a 30% decrease in the proportion of dry cows from a year ago when this figure was unduly high.

The net price of 3.7% milk for June 1930 as estimated by the Statistician of the New England Milk Producers' Association averaged $2.10 per hundred pounds compared with $2.27 per hundred pounds for May 1930, $2.26 for June 1929 and $2.04 the five year average 1924-1928 for June. The average of 92 score butter at Boston for the first week in July was 33.7 cents and compared with 33.4 cents per pound during the corresponding week of June 1930, 42.2 cents for July 1929 and 42.3 cents the 1924-1928 average.

During the first week in July feed-stuff supplies were meeting a generally slow demand. The decline in wheat mill feed prices in the last two months has carried prices to their lowest level in recent years. At Boston wheat feeds were down about 10% from a month ago; linseed meal was unchanged; cottonseed meal was off $4.55 per ton and hominy feed was off $1.00 per ton. Condition of pastures is very high in Maine and Vermont where there has been an abundance of rainfall. In the other New England States dry weather early in the spring held them back somewhat. Old mowings of hay are not showing very heavy yields this year but the new seeded fields are excellent.
